

Capability Statement

Indigenous Leadership | Commercial Partnerships | Social Procurement

Who We Are

Jarara & Co is majority Aboriginal-owned business advancing Indigenous economic participation across Victoria's construction and infrastructure sectors.

We work with builders, contractors, government and industry to turn social procurement commitments into practical and high-value outcomes, creating opportunities for Indigenous businesses, workers and communities while supporting project delivery.

Our strength is collaboration. By combining Indigenous leadership with commercial capability and a trusted network of industry and community partners, we deliver solutions that connect opportunity with meaningful impact.

What We Do

- Indigenous Procurement Management
- Strategic Industry Partnerships
- Social Procurement Governance & Reporting
- Community & Economic Participation

How We Do It

We make participation straightforward for project teams. By coordinating people, capability and information across stakeholders, we streamline delivery and ensure Indigenous and social procurement commitments progress smoothly on the ground. Our role is to remove friction, keep communication clear and support teams to achieve practical, measurable outcomes.

Our Partnership Model

Every partnership is shaped around the specific needs of the project. We integrate procurement management, industry capability and community insight to build tailored delivery solutions that strengthen participation and align with project requirements. This flexible model ensures clients receive the right support at the right stage of delivery.

Identify

We identify the right capability for the project.

Connect

We connect businesses, clients and community where appropriate.

Coordinate

We coordinate partnerships and support collaborative delivery throughout the project.
